KYSER TO ACT ON HOARDING OF FOOD

Unlawful Accumulations Subject to Confiscation and Violators to Prosecution.

Hoarding of food in Memphis in violation of the food control act as well as violations of the anti-trust laws will be promptly prosecuted by federal officials. Immediate steps will be taken by local officials of the department of justice to ascertain whether or not there is any violation in the city of Memphis and surrounding territory and such violations, if any, will be met with prompt action on the part of the government.

Complete instructions relative to the enforcement of the food control act and anti-trust acts were received Wednesday night by W. D. Kyser, district attorney, from A. Mitchell Palmer, attorney-general of the United States, in which the local official was advised to proceed vigorously and immediately in the matter as a part of the national campaign against the high cost of food-stuffs.

The instructions received late Wednesday night by telegraph from Gen. Palmer to Mr. Kyser follow: "The food control act, which is still in force in section 6, makes hoarding of necessities, as therein defined, a crime, and section 7, provided that wherever necessities shall be hoarded they may be proceeded against by process of libel for confiscation."

"There is much complaint in the country about the extensive storage of food products, which, in many instances,

MAGEVNEY SEES HIS OWN ERROR

In a voluntary statement made to Judge Tom Hersh Thursday morning in the second criminal court, Hugh M. Magevney, attorney, explained his conduct in the C. Hunter Raine case, which led to a motion being made to the court by Sam O. Bates, state attorney, for the dismissal of Magevney and John E. Bell.

Mr. Magevney admitted that he had made a mistake in not withdrawing as counsel for Raine, when Raine repudiated an agreement he and Magevney had made with Bates, to accept the testimony of Gen. Luke E. Wright by deposition.

This cause, which Raine held to be a reversible error in his case, led him to employ John E. Bell as his counsel. Mr. Bell filed a supplemental motion for new trial to Magevney's motion. He stated in court at the time of the presentation, that he had no knowledge of Magevney's and Bell's agreement. Magevney admitted that he should have withdrawn as Raine's counsel. Yet Magevney Thursday said that his withdrawal would have been practically an abandonment of Raine, as certainly no other attorney could have argued his motion for new trial as it should have been argued. Magevney stated that he had made a mistake, but that it was an honest mistake. Judge Hersh agreed with him, saying: "It never has entered my mind that you were not honest in the matter, Mr. Magevney. Know you are both honest and conscientious."

Magevney said that he was so wrapped up in the Raine case that it was four days after the motion to disbar was filed, before he could realize that he should have withdrawn as Raine's counsel.

The statement filed Thursday was voluntary. Magevney's formal answer to the motion to disbar will be filed by attorneys who will represent him. The hearing is set for August 11, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

ICE PLANTS TAXED TO SUPPLY DEMAND

The long-continued dry spell of unusually warm weather which Memphis is suffering in subjecting the ice manufacturing plants to a killing strain. The wheels of the plants have been turning night and day at tremendous speed in order to keep production abreast with the unprecedented demand of the overheated public. Thus far the demand has been fairly well met, but if anything breaks there will immediately be an ice famine.

All the plants are operating above average capacity and are able to supply only those customers outside of Memphis who insistently demand ice. The railroad companies have been making tremendous drains on the city's ice production for their passenger trains and refrigerator cars. Cities like Chicago are experiencing an ice famine and much of the business of iceing cars is being shoved off on Memphis and other points.

There is some talk of rationing ice if the strain is not soon eased by a cool day or two, which will give the companies time to overhaul their ice-making machinery. The machinery of the Bannan Coal and Ice company has been working at tremendous speed without setup night and day for 15 days, making a breakdown of the plant several men are kept on duty in the engine room to keep their eyes open for possible trouble.

The Bohlen-Huse Ice company is operating to full capacity after having had some trouble with its compressors Wednesday.

W. W. Johnson, vice-president and secretary of the Tennessee Coal and Ice company, declares that there has never been so great demand for ice as now, and that the weather has continued warm for a longer period this year than at any time during the 15 years he has been in the city.

BILL'S BUST AND FACE STICK IN BERLIN PLACES

BERLIN, Aug. 7.—The question whether photos, busts or busts of the deposed German Emperor are to be tolerated in official buildings and public schools, has come up again for discussion before the Prussian Diet, which was informed by Konrad Haenrich, the Minister of Education, that, despite his efforts to leave the delicate task to the fact and judgment of the respective officials, numerous instances have been reported to his ministry to the effect that the Hohenzollern emblems, once removed, have been ostentatiously replaced.

This prompted him to issue a new edict which covers the definite removal of such pictures and other reminders with the exception of art products. Haenrich was applauded by the left when he declared that the reminders of "old Kaiser days" could be no more tolerated than were the Republican emblems under the old regime.

His suggestion that the iconoclastic operations should proceed with as little demonstration as possible and recommended teachers to use their summer vacation for the job of packing up the painted, etched and marbled Hohenzollern.

THRIFT FIRST, SPENDING AFTERWARD, IS SLOGAN

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 7.—Silas W. Davis, director among the Jewish people, organization of the Sixth federal reserve district, is impressed with the immediate needs for more saving among the people, in the economic conditions which confront the world today. Mr. Davis made this statement today. "The reaction of feeling resulting from the close of the war has unquestionably tended to increase the disposition of individuals to buy and spend with comparatively little regard for the eventual results of their action. Possibly the most important immediate outcome of this condition of affairs is the over-inflation of retail trade in luxuries and the relative retardation of business in basic commodities and materials for manufactures."

In other words, Mr. Davis wants the people of this district to save first and think before they spend. He stated further:

"The world is confronted with a unique financial condition. It is more pressing in the United States than elsewhere. Europe is demanding credit in this country for the purchase of goods, materials and labor, with which to rebuild its devastated regions and to rehabilitate its stricken industries. Only from the United States can effective financial relief come. This country has already extended vast credits to Europe, and has financed the tremendous waste of the war. The federal reserve board has estimated that new European demands amounting to between three and four billions of dollars must be cared for during the coming year."

To extend any such vast credits as this, capital must be forthcoming. Europe may spend most of these billions here, but our industries and commerce cannot be maintained on credit alone. While they are waiting for Europe to produce enough actual capital to pay its bills here, they must have capital on which to live."

"Capital can only come from savings. Our financial leaders are agreed that only from the savings of America can we supply the tremendous sums in actual cash which must be forthcoming if our industry and commerce is to be maintained in full time operation, and if prosperity is to be continued in this country. Every individual must assume the responsibility for saving and for careful spending."

"This is one of the reasons behind the government's continued offer of savings securities to the people. Investment in thrift stamps, savings stamps and treasury savings certificates means the accumulation of capital in America that is vitally needed."

DENVER CULTIVATES LATIN-AMERICAN NATIONS

DENVER, Aug. 7.—Denver exporters are rapidly pushing open the gates of commercial South America by giving greater attention to the needs of Latin American countries, by more sympathetic reference to business customs prevalent below the equator, by more careful packing and by refraining from lauding in his own language.

Lessons derived from the experiences of Denver exporters are being applied to those of any section of the country. Business circulars are being issued in Spanish and correspondents familiar with that language are being employed so as to approach the customer in his own language.

Realizing that much of their merchandise must be transported by mules over the Andean passes, the Denver men are limiting the weight of packages of machinery to about 250 pounds and are packing them in cases composed of heavy planks reinforced with steel bands.

Extension of credit is being arranged through the assistance of certain New York banks.

Denver exporters find that it is best not to introduce innovations with painful suddenness.

There is scarcely a South American country with which some Denver manufacturer has not established commercial relations. The Andean mules at the West are reached by way of
